DETAILED ACTION

Priority

An application in which the benefits of an earlier application are desired must contain a specific reference to the prior application(s) in the first sentence of the specification of in an application data sheet (37 CFR 1.78(a)(2) and (a)(5)). The specific reference to any prior nonprovisional application must include the relationship (i.e., continuation, divisional, or continuation-in-part) between the applications except when the reference is to a prior application of a CPA assigned the same application number.

Specification

The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gill et al. (6113637). Fig. 1a shows an intervertebral spacer device with first and second baseplates (22,24) that are articulatable relative to one another. It can be seen (Fig. 5) the lower baseplate include perimetrical regions separated by a spacing with the perimetrical region having a pair of opposing recesses (56,58) that define an access volume. Fig. 14a shows a manipulation tool 70 with a distal shaft 74 with a relevant dimension 90 greater than the spacing. It also can be seen the upper baseplate has a perimetrical region with opposing recess pairs 36. The Examiner considers the two plates together to be a plurality of pairs. Figs. 2 and 5 each comprise a third access volume 38,60 respectively in the perimetrical regions of the plates. Regarding claims 3,4,8,9 please note the intended use as set forth in the claims carries no weight in the absence of any distinguishing structure.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1,6 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/309585 in view of either Keller '432 or Yuan '701 or Marnay '477. Copending application '585 discloses a spacer device with first and second baseplates and a manipulation tool that accesses the recesses of the baseplates. However, application '585 fails to disclose the baseplates are articulatable relative to one another. Keller, Marnay and Yuan all teach that baseplates are fully capable of being designed to articulate relative to one another. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the baseplates of the '585 disclosed invention in view of either Yuan, Keller or Marnay to make the baseplates articulate with respect to one another.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection.
